DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments and amendments, see Appeal Brief, filed 14 August 2006, with respect to the rejection(s) of claim(s) 22-24 under 35 U.S.C. 103 have been fully considered and are persuasive. Therefore, the rejection has been withdrawn. However, upon further consideration, a new ground(s) of rejection is made under 35 U.S.C. 101 and 35 U.S.C. 112(2nd) as set forth below. The Examiner apologizes that these issues were not raised earlier in the prosecution.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 22-24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

The invention is directed to an "internet-based system." However, a "system" should incorporate structure (e.g., some kind of hardware), but the claims only recite the system comprising "pages" which are simply html files; a "database," which is simply be a collection of information; and a "website," which is merely a collection of more pages, which simply constitute more files (see cited dictionary definitions of "web page" and "web site"). All of these are simply different types of software-based descriptive matter. There is no clear hardware or structure in the claims (see rejection under 35 U.S.C. 112(2nd) below regarding the server recited in the preamble). While the claims recite the pages being viewable on internet-connected computers, the computers themselves are not positively recited in the claims as being part of the system. Accordingly, the claims simply recite a collection of functional and nonfunctional descriptive software, which is not statutory under 35 U.S.C. 101.

Application/Control Number: 09/557,822

Art Unit: 3744

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 22-24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 22 recites the system comprising a server in line 2 of the preamble. However, the server does not appear anywhere in the body of the claim. It is unclear whether the server itself is actually being claimed as part of the system. It is not clear from the claim how the server relates to the recited pages, database, and web site, or whether it is intended to provide any structure to the claim.
